CHALLENGE

André Piscine only had an accounting software, without ERP. The management of their stock in particular was quite complicated both for offers and purchases that the company could not anticipate. The result? An overflow or a lack of parts and surprises in terms of deadlines. For more efficiency, André Piscine wanted a complete and powerful system that could cover all aspects of the business, but also a tool that was intuitive, easy to use and affordable.

SOLUTION

Thanks to Odoo, Eezee has centralized the management of their company from A to Z. Today, the open source software package manages :

- the CRM (management of new requests),
- Sales (drafting of offers),
- Project & Field service: management of on-site interventions (planning of the pouring of the slab, planning of the installation of the tank...),
- Production (work orders generated by orders, assembly in workshop),
- Stock and purchasing,
- Invoicing

RESULTS

Thanks to Odoo, everything is now automated and very easy to use. A better inventory management leads to a better planning of interventions, and a better management of the workers' schedule. Centralization allows for better collaboration between employees since everyone communicates in Odoo and access to project history. Everyone can follow them remotely, at any time and anywhere: on site, on the tablet... Today, the company also has a 360° view on each of its customers who benefit from a better experience.
